Consumer Guidelines for Pond Management Consultants or Fish Suppliers

These are guidelines to assist pond owners in the selection of a private pond consultant or fish supplier. In order to make an informed decision, pond owners may wish to ask the following questions:

Questions for pond management consultants:

1. How many years of experience do you have in this business? (An established business may have more experience with unusual problems or needs).
2. Do you have a staff member with a fisheries management degree? (A manager with a fisheries degree would be better trained in scientific pond management)
3. How will you survey my pond, and will I receive a written report? (At a minimum, a qualified pond manager should check a pond first-hand, and provide a written report on findings and recommendations to the pond owner).
4. Will you perform the needed management? (A good manager should be able to implement the recommendations, not simply stock fish as a cure-all for problems).

5. Can you provide me with a list of references? (An established, reputable manager should have plenty of satisfied customers).
6. How are your fees based? (Managers may charge by the job, or by the hour. Get an estimate in writing, up front).

Questions for fish suppliers:

1. What is the warranty on your fish? (Some suppliers only guarantee live fish delivery, but the fish may die later from hauling stress or disease).
2. Do you raise the fish, or do you buy them from someone else? (It's important to know the source of the fish provided, should problems arise).
3. What species and sizes of fish do you supply? (Some suppliers only sell or raise certain species or sizes of fish that may not be right for your pond).
